Hexol® present at Lubricant Expo Europe – a strategic step on the international market

Hexol® participated this autumn at Lubricant Expo Europe 2025, held in Düsseldorf, Germany, the largest European trade fair dedicated to lubricants, additives, and mobility solutions.

The exhibition brought together over 4,000 visitors, around 250 exhibitors, and more than 80 international speakers, reaffirming its role as a leading platform for idea exchange, innovation, and partnerships within the industry.

For Hexol®, attending this event represented an important opportunity to strengthen its visibility in international markets, while also exploring the latest technological and sustainable trends in the field. The company's booth drew strong interest from professionals worldwide, confirming the quality and competitiveness of Hexol® products on a global scale.

“Participating in Lubricant Expo Europe helps us stay connected to the newest directions in the industry and build valuable relationships with partners from various countries. It marks an important step in our international expansion strategy, through which we aim to bring Hexol’s expertise and products closer to global customers,” stated Mr. Daniel Condratov – President of Hexol®.
